

NATIONAL TRUST

Cast bronze letters & plaques have a long tradition in architectural applications. A prime objective of the National Trust is the preservation of historic & significant buildings and structures.

Bronze plaques are long lasting & durable as well as adding a distinguished aura to the structure to which they are affixed. Vital details about the history & technical aspects can be recorded on the site in a permanent way.

Bronze is available in several alloys and many finishes so a combination can be chosen to be sympathetic with any application.

Phoenix compositing staff are available to assist with layouts & inscriptions or there is a "design your own plaque" feature on the Phoenix website. Customers are able to track the progress of their order and can obtain a paper "proof" of the artwork to show colleagues & others involved in a project.
